

Bundle needed if church plans to inherit bus line

Pleasanton Assembly's pastor has a dream — a vision which he feels is God-inspired. It is such an ambitious dream he'll even admit it will take a full-fledged, A-one genuine miracle to realize fulfillment.

Yet, the Rev. Ronald A. Bennett, also believes that "nothing is impossible with God," so he's proceeding with plans as if the celestial answer is already "yes."

A special charter bus company, Golden Pacific Transportation, Inc., which has been furnishing busses for a special outreach program which the church sponsors, is willing to give its equity of $195,000 over to the ministry of busing. Although the company is appraised at $400,000, it is in financial need. It will take $205,000 of immediate funds to realize this takeover.

A lot of letters have been mailed and a lot of promises have been made, according to Pastor Bennett, and he hasn't given up hope yet.

Although Pleasanton Assembly has been at its present location on Alisal Road for eight years, the Rev. Bennett says "we really began to listen to God only one year ago."

"It began," says the pastor, "with the busing of people and children — all sorts of just kids — from as far away as San Francisco, bringing them miles to give them the love of Jesus."

"Since the program started," Bennett says, "people's lives began to change, attitudes became healthier and their lives took on a purpose as they began to care." Parents of the children asked questions, according to Rev. Bennett, as they slowly observed their unruly, undisciplined kids changing behavior and attitudes.

It is primarily this outreach that the Rev. Bennett hopes to see come to an end. He also sees the acquisition of this bus company as having the potential of providing charter service in order to sustain itself, provide jobs in driving, mechanics, body, paint, administrative, as well as on-the-job training, for not only the local high school students, but those who need a helping hand.

He would also like to see the bus company, under the direction of the Action Council of the church, guide the outreach to include a transportation system within the valley area for handicapped and elderly unable to drive or be mobile.

The prayers are big at this church. They also include a search for a school site, which will house 300 students, space for a college and vocational training and the base of operations for the bus outreach. But their faith is big too, and they are now just waiting for you to respond and join them in their concern.

Pleasanton recount a possibility

Pleasanton Joint School District officials may seek a recount of Tuesday's vote on the revenue limit increase measure but for the Amador Valley Joint High School District it's full speed ahead to the "budget parking room."

With all known ballots counted, the Pleasanton measure had received 3,614 "no" votes and 3,590 "yes" votes. Thus, if 13 persons had changed their vote—possibly wishful thinking on the part of school observers—the measure would have passed.

The outcome was more decisive in the Amador district, which includes both Pleasanton and Dublin precincts, 49 all told.

The "no" vote was 7,147 and "yes" tally 5,855 ... or a 54.97 per cent to 45.03 per cent margin.

A breakdown of how the individual precincts in Dublin and Pleasanton voted will not be available for another week.

Al Dutchover, president of the Pleasanton board, said Wednesday the board would have to decide, probably at a meeting scheduled for June 17, whether to order a recount. Such an action is expensive and must be paid by the school district making the request of the county elections division.

"We did everything humanly possible to inform the public of the issue," Dutchover said. "Millie Wing (of the central district office) coordinated the board and staff effort and I believe we reached as many groups as we possibly could have."

The second term board president added, however, that "school district measures are the only areas where the taxpayer can say 'yes' or 'no' to an increase in taxes."

Dr. Bruce Newlin, district superintendent, felt confusion over the increase in assessed valuation (16 per cent) may have led many voters to cast a "no" vote. "School districts are not tied to assessed valuation anymore," Newlin commented. "But some voters may have seen the increase in assessed valuation as a boon to local districts....when in actuality we still get the same amount of funds," Newlin added dourly.

The high school board has scheduled a special budgetary meeting for June 22 at which time they are expected to look at prospective areas to cut.

Among the items listed prior to the election were busing, athletics and extracurricular activities (at the high school level) and busing and library services at the elementary level.

Amador must adopt a tentative budget for 1976-77 on June 29 and the Pleasanton district on June 30.

This scene which is a popular one at the Alameda County Fairgrounds during fair time may not be there this year. Due to the striking Alameda County workers, a special executive committee of the fair board will meet on June 12 to determine if there will be horse racing this year and on June 18 to decide if there will be a fair. The yearly event which brings thousands through its gates is scheduled to begin June 27 for a two week run. Anyone care to place their bet on whether there will or will not be a fair this year? Line forms to the right.

$2.5 million lost?

Track may shut down Sunday

The race track and barns at the Alameda County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton will be closed down Sunday unless an agreement on purses is reached between the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association and the Western Fairs Association.

Lee Hall, secretary-manager of the Alameda County Fair Association, said yesterday the group has made its final offer and will honor a joint resolution of the racing fairs to hold the line.

Not only is the 12-day race season threatened, but negotiations on the county strike scene have stalled which could lead to the Alameda County Fair — in its entirety — being cancelled.

The Fair dates are June 27 to July 11.

Hall said if the track were shut down and the Fair cancelled, approximately $2.5 million in revenues could be lost. This would include revenues lost from parking, admissions, concessions and racing.

The County Fair Association has already expended between $350,000 and $400,000 in preparations for the annual Fair, considered one of the biggest and best in the Western United States.

The HBPA now receives 53 per cent of the purses, but is asking for an additional 1.2 per cent. Hall charged yesterday that "The HBPA proposes to be an association that includes all horsemen. But they won't give us a list of their membership."

While the latter is not the prime concern, it has been a source of irritation between the fairs and HBPA.

The decision day on the Fair, aside from the track and barns, is June 18.

County Fair Association directors, on the motion of director DeWitt Wilson, agreed to meet at 10 a.m. Friday, June 18 to consider closing down the Fair if the strike is not settled or if pickets are not withdrawn by then.

Hall said pickets first showed at the Fairgrounds last Thursday. A handful were picketing at the Rose Avenue gate Wednesday morning but had left by 1:30 p.m.

A cancellation of the Fair, which would have little or no effect on the Bicentennial - theme Fair parade slated for Sunday, June 27, would mark the first such occurrence in the Fair's long and storied history.

Robert Stein, executive vice president of the Western Fairs Association, said last night that the impasse would probably lead to the formation of a new horsemen's association to be named the Northern California Fair Horsemen's Racing Association.

Olsen said the WFA's legal staff was working around the clock to set-up the machinery for the organization, which could save not only the Alameda County Fair racing season but the one scheduled to start Monday at the Solano County Fair in Vallejo.

Western Fairs had made an offer June 3 to throw all available funds into the hopper and split it 50-50 with horsemen.

On June 7, the HBPA made a counter proposal which asked for 50 per cent of commission, 50 per cent of the first breakage and 100 per cent of the exempt breakage.

The WFA negotiating panel, which is composed of Hall, Solano manager Ron Miller, Ralph Hinds of Fresno and Stein, countered that with a 50, 50 and 75 per cent, respectively, offer — which was left on the negotiating table.

Stein said the WFA offer would yield $516,730 (50 per cent of commission), $28,253 on first breakage and $42,380 on second breakage plus $1,500 in insurance premiums and $20,931 in California Breeder awards ... for a total package of $609,344.

Stein said the actual difference between the HBPA and the final Fairs offer is something like 1.2 per cent — 53.14 per cent would go to the horsemen while the Fairs would retain 46.58 per cent (this being the Fairs offer).

He reiterated that there was a strong possibility of the Solano season going on as scheduled if the legal machinery for the new horsemen's group is completed in time for the Vallejo fair to receive entries Friday.

Should that occur, the meet in Pleasanton would probably go on as scheduled.

Agony, ecstasy and some tough battles ahead

The day after the primary — winners, predictably, were feeling good about the outcome; losers, predictably, were feeling glum; and everyone who had waited up till the wee hours of the morning for election results was feeling very tired.

In the First District Supervisorial contest, incumbent Supervisor John Murphy netted 16,858 votes, 32 per cent of the votes cast. Valerie Raymond of Livermore came in second with 14,372 votes, 27 per cent. With no candidate pulling more than 50 per cent of the votes cast, the contest moved into a November run-off between Murphy and Raymond.

Raymond said yesterday she was "very pleased" with the results. "It came out about how I had anticipated it would," she said. "Murphy did about as badly as I'd hoped he might."

Raymond said the results showed Murphy is "very vulnerable" adding "I think we can take him in November."

Murphy's Fremont campaign manager Rich Wood disagreed. "I don't think this was an anti-Murphy vote," he said. "I think the results showed the challengers ran good campaigns and showed they have considerable strength, but we plan to continue to wage a positive campaign accentuating Supervisor Murphy's accomplishments. If we make people aware of his record, I think they'll respond."

Wood said the tally came out very much as Murphy had expected. He said the supervisor knew he would have to work hard to win in November, but said the Murphy organization was confident the incumbent would be elected to a fifth term in November.

Raymond said she expected to win the support of Irene Vincent and Rob Alves who ran third and fourth in the primary contest.

After a week's vacation, Raymond said she is going to take a hard look at the precinct tallies before deciding whether to alter her campaign strategy.

She said she was encouraged by the results, but vowed not to take the race for granted. "I know it will be a hard fight," she said.

Gib Marguth, Ed Kinney and Archer Futch, winners in the race for three seats on the Zone 7 Board of Directors, said they were surprised by the order of finish in the eight-man race, but were pleased by the outcome.

Marguth ran first, garnering 11,941 votes, nearly 17 per cent of the votes cast.

"I was surprised — I thought I'd be number two," Marguth confessed yesterday.

Calling the contest "interestingly close," Marguth said it means that the voters "took time to find out what they could about the candidates and selected men who can work for solutions, not just talk about them."

Marguth said there would be no polarization on the new seven-member zone board. "It's a good group who bring different perspectives to work effectively for solutions. All philosophies will be represented," he said.

Second place finisher Ed Kinney had been confident of victory all along. "I thought I'd come in first, to be honest," he said. Kinney racked up 11,648 votes, 16 per cent of the votes cast.

Kinney sees the election as a "real mandate that people are satisfied with the direction that the zone is headed."

He said the election had to be polarized in order to defeat Don Miller. Voters had a clear choice, he said, regarding the Miller defeat as a moral victory.

"The voters said they'll accept a positive approach to solving the valley's problems," Kinney declared. "The voters said no to fear. There's optimism ringing in the valley."

Archer Futch placed third with 11,431 votes, 16 per cent. Futch said he was surprised at the order of finish, but thought he had had a good chance.

The former Livermore mayor said he thinks the valley will have "a good board," and said he looked forward to serving.

Don Miller ran fourth with 9,896 votes, nearly 14 per cent. Behind him placed incumbent David Harris, who captured 9,450 votes, 13 per cent.

Candidate Tom Schweser fell far behind his political colleagues Marguth and Schweser, with 10,209 votes, 12 per cent.

Marguth, Kinney and Futch will assume their new posts in July. Each will serve a four-year term.

MSD evaluation continues

Resource teacher program fate unknown

The Murray School District's resource teacher program, though receiving top marks from classroom teachers and parents, is still being evaluated and no determination for the program's future has been made.

At a school board meeting Monday, trustees received survey reports from the Murray Teachers Association representative council and Les Schmidt, curriculum coordinator for the district.

The MTA rep council survey, however, was somewhat discredited when board president Ted Woy commented some of the figures didn't prove out. Schmidt's report was accompanied by some 50 pages of evaluation from resource teachers in the district. He noted that there are 55 teachers at the schools that have resource programs.

Of the four questions asked of classroom teachers, the largest number gave top marks to cooperation, pupil benefit and working relationship with students.

The MTA rep council survey, composed of 13 questions, concluded that the "Murray district resource program can be beneficial but not if we (teachers) have to subsidize it."

One question asked, "If there was an unallocated $100,000 in the 1976-77 school budget, how would you like the money spent? Please rank in order of priority."

Salary gained top priority with supplies, resource teacher program, class size, aides and fringe benefits following, in that order.

Trustees, following a closed session, decided to schedule a special meeting for Thursday at 8 p.m. to discuss selection of a new auditor for 1976-77. The meeting is also closed to the public.

Ginni Lunger, president of the Donlon School Parent Faculty Club, presented a copy of a letter to trustees that has been sent to the Pleasanton City Council and Caltrans.

Mrs. Lunger states, "It is the opinion of the Donlon P-F-C that the proposed West Las Positas overcrossing should receive first priority to ensure the following:

"Pedestrian safety: Students presently cross Freeway 680 on foot or crawl through culverts under the freeways.

"Reduced mileage for students and parents: Less gasoline would be used, therefore saving gas and reducing air pollution.

"Reduced and safer busing routes to Foothill High School: Foothill's largest enrollment comes from east of Freeway 680.

"Emergency vehicle response: A vital necessity.

"Access to Pleasanton shopping: Pleasanton is losing valuable sales tax revenue."

In the letter, Mrs. Lunger adds, "We realize the funding constraints but feel our city council and state Department of Transportation will want to do all they can to expedite this overcrossing before a death has resulted because of the lack of safety and emergency vehicle availability."

In other business, trustees recognized the California School Employees Association bargaining unit, received a letter from the Valley Community Services District asking to postpone a joint meeting slated Thursday, tabled two resolutions of key importance dealing with acceptance of the 27-acre Dolan school site in Silvergate and final payment to the contractor, and heard an update on Senate Bill 1641, a prime school financing bill now in the Assembly ways and means committee.

First strike negotiations flop

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — County supervisors and representatives of some 3,000 striking employees had their first face-to-face negotiations session in three weeks yesterday afternoon.

The meeting, called at labor's request, produced "very little movement," according to Board of Supervisors' Chairman Fred Cooper.

"It was not a kind of productive meeting at all," echoed Central Labor Council leader Dick Groulx. "No progress was made."

Supervisors Cooper and Joseph Bort joined county negotiator Jim Marshall and County Administrator Loren Enoch in meeting with Groulx and union negotiator John Bowers in a less than 90-minute meeting.

Groulx said the meeting was called for 1 p.m. because the supervisors could not make an 10 a.m. meeting. The board held a 2:30 p.m. executive session to discuss the talks.

"The next time we meet it should go around the clock," declared Groulx.

Both Cooper and Groulx agreed there are no meetings scheduled for the future.

The board last month passed a salary ordinance effective July 1 that grants a 4.2 per cent pay-fringe benefits package, but union spokesmen have demanded a 7.6 per cent package they say will equal one given management.

Meanwhile, management's predictions of a surge of returning workers failed to materialize.

County Administrator Loren Enoch said he expected an influx of workers after Tuesday's elections, but the tally from yesterday showed a net decrease of 12 non-management county employees at work.

Attendance figures have been holding at a steady 60 per cent of non-management personnel all week, up from last week's low of 55 per cent.

Union spokeswoman Kay Eisenhower said yesterday they "in general don't accept (the county's) figures, but were not interested in getting into a war through the media. The strike is obviously affecting services."

Health care and social services have been hardest hit in the nine-day-old walkout.

Only 898 of some 1,700 health care personnel — including nurses and technicians at Highland General Hospital — reported for work yesterday. The hospital has reduced its work load to about 40 patients.

Social services, which handle welfare and food stamp applicants, had 377 of 1552 non-management employees at work.

Superior Courts are running normally, but the backlog of paperwork apparently is beginning to be felt.

Both the County Assessor's and Clerk-Recorder's offices also are feeling the pinch. Sixty-six per cent of the assessor's personnel — both management and non-management — were at work yesterday, while only 30 of 100 non-management people were in the clerk-recorder's office.

Enoch said Monday that the county could absorb the backlog, including the follow-through work in welfare, for "a couple of weeks," but that the effect would be cumulative.

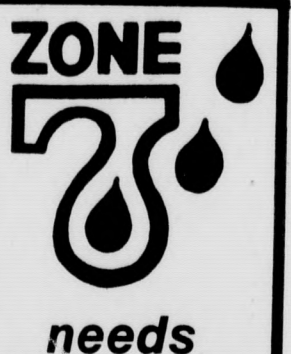

Union representative Eisenhower said the three Service Employees International Union locals went out on strike while their contract was still in effect because of the legal lead time required in reading into ordinance the county's pay scales.

The county charter requires the reading at least 30 days before the effective date.

She said they employees went out because the county "was not bargaining in good faith. We don't have a no-strike clause." We were left with no choice but to go out right away."

Tax defeats force school rethinking

A host of special meetings dealing with budgets are scheduled in the next three weeks in the wake of turn-downs of both Amador and Pleasanton school district revenue limit increase measures.

Study sessions are tentatively planned for Thursday, June 17 (Pleasanton Joint School District board) and Tuesday, June 22 (Amador Valley Joint High School District board).

The high school board is scheduled to adopt a tentative 1976-77 budget on Tuesday, June 29 and the elementary board the following night.

Amador trustees have also changed the regular

July board meeting to July 6. Both school panels intend on adopting publication budgets the night of July 19.

But, before any further work can proceed on the budgets, Assistant Superintendent Doug Rose, aide Virginia Gorski and the administration will have to sit down with board members to consider probable cuts in the 76-77 budgets.

Though no school official would say so, these cuts could come in the areas of bus services, library services at the elementary level, athletics at the high school level, extracurricular activities, the elementary instrumental music program, and school supplies and materials.

When cuts were made last year, the district leadership eliminated or curtailed school bus routes in Pleasanton and Dublin and held discussions towards eliminating freshmen football.

Most of the busing was later restored as was the yearling grid programs at Amador, Dublin and Foothill.

High school district trustees also heard a Foothill High School curriculum survey report by Clark Thayne, a vice principal at the school.

Purpose of the survey, Thayne said, was to identify areas within the curriculum which are going well for the school at present or which may need further analysis/needs assessment to improve the school's curriculum offerings.

Under results, 18 "areas of significance" were listed, including the following:

1) All three groups (students, staff and parents) agreed with the statement that "small classes are good." Parents and teachers significantly more so than students.

2) Parents and teachers agree that "there is good variety of courses in the school." Students were neutral.

3) Teachers agree that "There is an adequate variety of teaching methods used by the faculty." But students were neutral and parents disagreed.

4) Teachers agree that "Students can get a good college preparation at Foothill High School." Parents and students were neutral.

5) All groups disagreed with the statement that "there are ample magazines and books in the library to meet the educational needs of students."

6) Teachers disagreed with the statement, "Foothill has adequate places to study." Parents and students were neutral in regard to that statement.

7) Parents and teachers agreed that "Students have a good selection of courses."

8) Parents and teachers disagreed that "Students are required to take courses they do not want." Students were neutral on this subject.

9) Teachers agreed that "The grading system is fair and meaningful." Students and parents were neutral on this statement.

10) Parents and student disagreed that "The school meets the needs of the slow learner either within class or in separate programs."

Thayne reported, in summary, that "many questions are yet to be answered. The library needs more and better materials. We should seek as small a class as possible for learning. If we provide variety to our curriculum, the next turn goes to the students since their need is least met.

"Teachers ought to seek more variety to their teaching methods. We have yet to prove to the community that we prepare students adequately for college since we have no graduates."

"Regarding study places — perhaps with the band out of the library this need is being met. Fairness and meaningfulness of the grading system needs to be further pressed by teachers. Though we weren't openly criticized there were no, significant plaudits either.

"We need to provide more effort to the commitment to excellence for the sharper students, but more significantly is the need to further help the slow learners. Further analysis is necessary regarding courses needing to be added and perhaps dropped from the curriculum," Thayne concluded.

In other business, the Amador school board received the annual school bus inspection report and approved resolutions accepting Phase II construction at Foothill, the gym bleachers at Foothill and reaffirming workmen's compensation for volunteers and trustees.

America

America means ... rainbows and motels and horses and DeAnza and a fort and the ocean and six suns of all different colors — according to Jackson Avenue School fourth graders who painted a long mural for Lloyds Bank in Livermore. "What America Means to Me" was the theme. Designs and the actual painting work (acrylics on fiberglass) were contributed by most of the nine-year-olds under the supervision of local artist Dorothy Barlett. The bank paid for all materials and will be hanging the finished, framed work at their Granada Shopping Center office; the Livermore Unified School District hired Barlett as a consultant. Showing off a section of the long work of art are Teresa Ta, Jackie Crawford, Ian Barlett.

Flexibility helps kids

PLEASANTON—A survey of 425 Pleasanton School students earlier this spring and compiled in late May shows that seventh and eighth graders at the school are being helped by the "A-B" program.

The program, started last year, is a new method of scheduling for seventh and eighth grade students. For example, a student would take such basics as mathematics and English Monday through Friday (75 minutes each daily) and several electives, such as typing, on a two or three-times-a-week basis.

Faculty member Bob Brown was among those instrumental in initially setting up the program.

The survey included 12 questions with students checking either "strong agree," "agree," "partly agree," "disagree," and "strongly disagree."

On almost all the questions, a majority of students checked either "agree" or "partly agree." For example, on the question "Most of the classes I have taken this year have a lot to do with things in which I am really interested," 11 per cent checked "strongly agree," 35 per cent "agree," and 47 per cent "partly agree."

However, on one question, "I consider the students here to be self-motivated and self-disciplined," 43 per cent checked partly agree and 22 per cent "disagree." Only 19 per cent checked "agree."

Doubt was also expressed on the question, "The teachers in the classes I have taken gave me individual attention." Just 42 per cent "partly agreed" while 20 per cent disagreed with the statement. Only 4 per cent "strongly agreed."

The greatest amount of agreement was expressed on the question, "My parents like this year's program." A full 70 per cent of students responding checked either agree or strongly agree.

Strong agreement was also expressed for the statement-question "I have come to know and like most of my teachers." Twenty-six per cent checked "strongly agree" and 43 per cent "agree." Only 8 per cent disagreed or strongly disagreed.

Two other statement-questions also received a heavy positive response from the 425 students responding. They were "In classes this year I learned to do things on my own," and "My activity classes (art, P.E., etc.) allowed me enough time to get my work done."

Tom Leonard, a faculty member who helped compile the responses, notes that 21 per cent ranked "excellent," and 48 per cent "good."

County strike strains food reserve

DUBLIN—The strike by county employees has placed an unforeseen strain on emergency food supplies provided by the Children's Emergency Council, and they in turn are looking to the public for help.

CEC director Brenda Bodie said yesterday that the volunteer group has been contacted to help several families in the last week, an apparent result of the county strike.

The group is seeking donations of canned and dry goods, as well as monetary gifts. All donations are tax deductible.

"At the current rate, present food supplies will last only two or three more months," Bodie said. Usually, donation drives near Christmas provide enough staples for an entire year, she added.

In addition to food, the council provides limited medical and dental assistance, clothing on an emergency basis, short term shelter in some emergency cases, and referral service for permanent and professional assistance from other agencies.

All churches and most local service organizations help support the CEC, lending aid and donating money and supplies. The group receives no federal funding, and all donations go back to needy families.

The council operates Tuesday and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in a building behind John Knox Church on Amarillo Road in Dublin. A 24-hour phone service is available to answer calls for aid and accept donations.

If you can help the Children's Emergency Council, please call the volunteer group at 828-5363.

Nurses' trainer

She teaches them to care

The Valley has 24 new nursing assistants, thanks to Manila McGuire.

Manila is the dynamic, warmhearted and bright-eyed Regional Occupation Program teacher to young women who want to go into nursing.

Assisted by Tina Maher, Manila has spent the year giving classroom lessons and standing beside her students as they change a dressing, diaper a newborn baby or prepare an injection.

She's been so effective that already 15 of the women have part-time jobs which will be working into fulltime positions in many cases. A number of students have won substantial scholarships to go on to regular nursing school.

This is the fifth class of nursing assistants Manila has graduated since the Valley-wide ROP program was launched.

On the cover of Monday night's graduation program was a poem which embodies what Manila teaches:

*Nursing.
It can mean drying a tear.
Or saving a life.
Aiding the sick.
Or counseling the healthy.
Helping a baby take its first breath.
Or comforting an old man as he takes his last.
Nursing can mean many things.
But most of all, it means caring.*

"Caring" was the theme of the ceremonies held in Livermore High's student union building. Certificates were awarded to: Martha Benjamin, Blanca Bustamante, Gaylynn Carothers, Nancy Crews, Patricia Dorn, Connie Fenton, Gaye Gede, Jennifer Henshaw, Veronica Hernandez, Lori Hunter, Mary Ann Leonard, Debra McCleary, Belina Mendes, Vanessa Moreno, Charlene Mullins, Rhonda Pacanowski, Debra REgo, Deborah Reichle, Janice Reinsteint, Linda Roads, Linda Savage, Sharon Thome, Patricia Weaver and Pamela Winton.

Their graduation brings to 156 the number of students in the Valley who have received nursing assistants' certificates. Scholarships went to Gaye Gede of Granada High, who received $100 from the Livermore Business and Professional Women's Club and $500 from the University of San Francisco.

Another good beginning was made by Jennifer Henshaw, who received $200 from the California School Employees Association.

Lori Hunter of Amador High took home an $800 award from the Alameda-Contra Costa County Women's Auxiliary.

A graduate of last year's program, Paige Sexton, has received three scholarships: $600 from the Women's Medical Auxiliary, $500 from the Valley Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary and $200 from the American Legion.

Paige will be going to Mount Saint Mary's nursing school in Los Angeles. She graduates from Livermore High this year and was the first nursing assistant to be hired to work in a recovery room.

The students come from all Valley high schools. They are bused to Valley Memorial Hospital in Livermore where they spend three hours a day. Three days a week are spent in clinical experience at VMH and Hacienda Convalescent Hospital and two days are spent in the classroom learning theory.

Alameda fair to start soon

There's gold in that thar Fair! The Alameda County Fair, June 27th through July 11th, will feature the $500,000 Bank of America Gold Exhibit as part of the Mineral and Gem Department display.

Featuring a chunk of almost solid pale yellow gold on white quartz weighing 86 troy ounces and valued at $22,000 from the Idaho-Maryland mine near Grass Valley, California, the Gold Exhibit is a collection of 420 gold specimens in natural form. Ninety-two of the specimens are from California Mother Lode gold mines.

The collection, while valued at $100,000 by assayers, is worth $500,000 in museum or collector's value. It was started more than four decades ago in the historic Gold Rush town of Angel's Camp by banker Charles C. Crespi. He began buying gold to satisfy the curiosity of tourists who regularly asked to see samples of the native metal.

Choosing only the more beautiful or rare forms of California gold, the banker displayed a real Midas touch. As the collection grew in size, so did its fame — especially among gem and mineral societies.

Youth find Jesus where the rubber meets the road

The Fish Factory, a "coming together" of young people in Dublin from junior high through college, is helping valley youth to "establish a dynamic of excitement and victory in their personal lives," according to the Rev. Pat Clements.

Clements is youth minister at the Valley Christian Center which has set the goal of encouraging young people to share their lives with others and learn in the relaxed atmosphere of weekly meetings.

"I feel that young people are lonely," says the minister. "We try to give them a good time getting to know each other — we try to meet the kids where they are." Purpose of the Fish Factory is to communicate the Gospel of Jesus Christ and show how it relates to everyday life.

Christianity is discussed "where the rubber meets the road," as Clements says.

Between 40 and 75 youths have been turning up for the hour and a half meetings at the Valley Christian Center at 7400 San Ramon Rd., Dublin, Sundays at 4 p.m. The meetings open with guitar sing-alongs, and then a sharing of victories and needs. Finally, there is a talk by Clements directing and strengthening the young people's Christian lives.

Frequently, instead of a talk, there will be a Christian rock or folk group or a movie. Chico Holiday, a recording artist who has entertained at Las Vegas, will sing at the June 20 meeting of the Fish Factory.

The Fish Factory has been open for three months, and attendance has been steadily growing, says Clements, sometimes topping 100.

It is part of the inter-denominational approach of the Valley Christian Center which involves young people in Bible studies, recreation, socials, retreats and other group activities. Individuals may also be counseled on a one-to-one basis.

Clements sees the Fish Factory as "something that can help young people form relationships." He has been working with young people for ten years as a counselor, and even as a football coach.

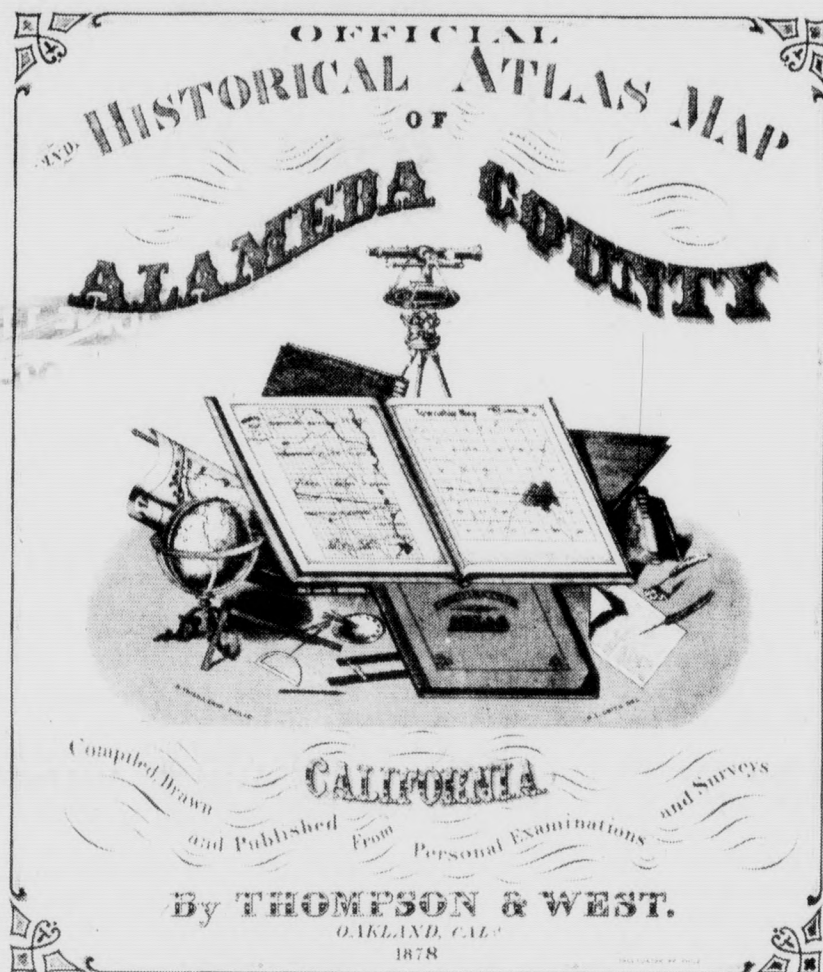

Meetings are open to all interested young people. There are no official obligations for those who come, and the program is funded by free-will donations. For information contact Pastor Clements at 828-4549.

Famous 1878 atlas

Special reprint available

A few fortunate descendants of Alameda County pioneers have inherited a beautiful lithograph of their grandfather's home or farm. A handful of worn and fragile copies survived in rare book sections of libraries.

Attractive but awkward in size, the original "Official and Historical Atlas Map of Alameda County" was published by Thompson and West in 1878. Its exquisite lithographs, detailed maps and historical text have long been a source of valuable information to students and historians.

Now, in honor of the Bicentennial, the Valley Publishers of Fresno have reprinted this fascinating book, complete in every detail, in a convenient 9-inch by 12-inch format.

Recognizing the significance of this volume to residents and students of Alameda County, the Alameda County Bicentennial Commission has endorsed this project, initiated by the Mission Peak Heritage Foundation. In doing so, the Commission has confirmed an endorsement by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors nearly 100 years ago, when it gave the original "Atlas" the unique designation "OFFICIAL."

The publishers have incorporated several features not found in the original edition to enhance its use. These are a complete index to the historical text, a preface by the Mission Peak Heritage Foundation containing information about the original "Atlas" and its publishers, notes on early county maps, bibliography and reference sources, and descriptions of the various Victorian architectural styles represented in the lithographs.

Prominent features of the 1878 "Atlas" include:

- Elegant lithographs (130), clearly and accurately reproduced, portraying the architecture, lifestyle and quaint nostalgia of a Victorian era.

- Large-scale detailed lithographed maps of Alameda County and its towns circa 1878 showing Spanish ranchos, school districts, topography, roads, property ownership and boundaries and home locations. East, north and south views of Murray Township are given, with two maps of Pleasanton, a panoramic map of downtown Livermore and surrounding area, and two views of the Dublin area.

- An historical text based on contemporary interviews with pioneer witnesses to early events.

- A wealth of statistical information in the gazetteer section about population, schools, finance, agriculture and industry. Included is a valuable business directory of county patrons listed by townships, giving age, occupation, place of birth, arrival date and residence.

Lithographs of valley buildings, of course, represent only a fraction of the total found in the "Atlas." Among 21 structures of the Livermore-Amador Valley

In Livermore — the Livermore College, Mills Square, the Dyer Farm, the Farmer's Exchange Hotel, the Imman house, the home of Carl Munch, the home of George Stanley, the Beazell house, the Esden house, the Washington Hotel, the home of George May, the Clary house, two lithographs of the Robert Livermore, Jr., house (Teresa Bernal), the Horton house.

In Pleasanton — the John English house, the Kapp house, the J. Black house, the W. Neal house. In Sunol — the Duer Nussbaumer house and Bachelor house.

The book is now available for $25 from the Alameda County Bicentennial Commission, located at Old St. Raymond's Church, Dublin. Two local historical guilds also offer the book: The Livermore Heritage Guild at P.O. Box 961 in Livermore (history center at the Carnegie Building) and the Dublin Historical Preservation Association, P.O. Box 2245, Dublin.

The Amador - Livermore Valley Historical Society has chosen to promote sale of the book through the Bicentennial Commission since a small profit is realized with each volume sold.

A Drifter's Brand

Long road dreams,
clouds in whiskey nights,
young boots tapping out old blues:
my name could be Utah,
Rainy Hunger, Lost Train;
on a Great Northern boxcar.

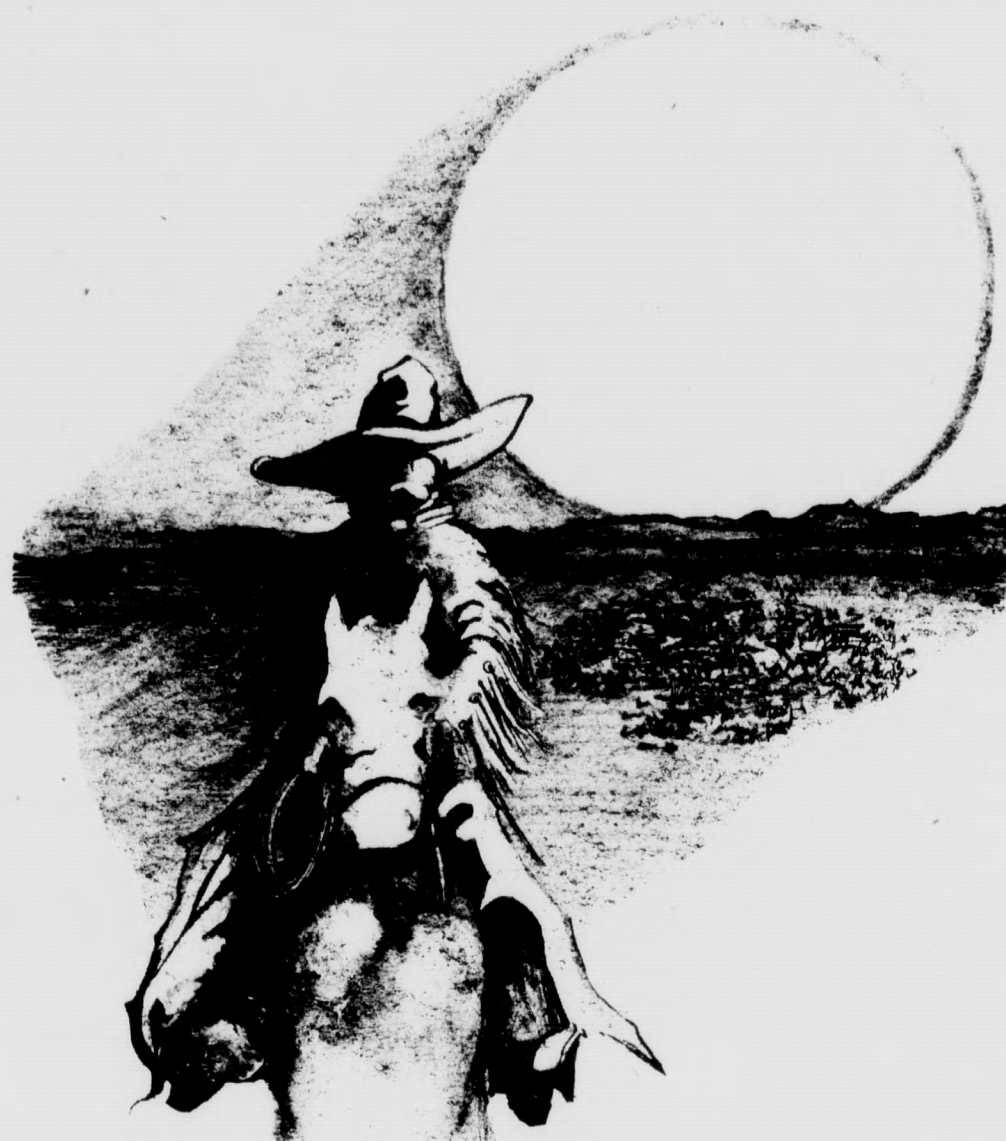

You can just call me Art.

Old hard to find rainbows, beauty on a lonesome day,
thunder shattering a farmboy sigh, that's me: my life is outlaw faith,
a river poem, thirst searching.

I cowboy through the Crow Reservation.

I am hitch-hiker salvation,
a thumb in the cold wind, a diesel ride across the Nevada Desert at midnight.
My suitcase battered like the bums of the dustbowl, my palms like heart-broken poemless prairies howling a drifter's band —
no home no land.

My dark eyes hold no peace,
like a black man who dares to speak
I'm gonna saddle me up some relief.

The American Cowboy: lone, heroic figure

By RON McNICOLL

It's Livermore Rodeo time folks, a good time for valley residents to take a look at the mystique of the American Cowboy. It's still strong in the valley, especially in Livermore, where an entire high school calls itself the Cowboys.

The Cowboy as literary figure has been the lone, heroic figure, almost like the masterless Samurai warrior in Japanese history, literature and films. He rides into town alone, rights wrongs while keeping his integrity, then rides off into the sunset, still looking for the Holy Grail.

And he is still a fantasy for many of us, whether we are kids at a Saturday matinee, or adults who like our politics on the "clean 'em up" side. For example, our own Secretary of State has compared himself to a cowboy:

"The main point arises from the fact that I've always acted alone. Americans like that immensely. Americans like the cowboy who leads the wagontrain by riding ahead alone on his horse, the cowboy who rides all alone into the town with his horse and nothing else. Maybe even without a pistol, since he doesn't shoot. He acts, that's all, by being in the right place at the right time. In short, a Western." That was Henry Kissinger talking to political journalist Oriana Fallaci, as quoted in Rolling Stone last week.

The poems on this page belong to Art Cuelho and Dean Phelps. Cuelho has lived much of his life on a ranch near Riverbank in the Central Valley near Fresno. Poems here are taken from his book, "The Last Foot of Shade," by Holmgangers Press in Alamo.

Phelps, who lives in Montana and shows a great feel for the land, also is published by Holmgangers. His book is "Shoshoni River Witching Hour." He also has a new collection of Montana short stories out from the same publisher.

EDITOR'S NOTE: All poems copyright the authors and Holmgangers Press, reprinted here with permission. The sketches are by Andrew E. Curry as printed in "The Grassman" by Thorp Springs Press of Berkeley. Authentic Western brands are the courtesy of Jon Hart of Gilroy.

Always a song for Uncle Manuel

The pickup key turned off while green tules measure the canal water flow into a headgate memory:
go deep into barley fields and hear his hightops break loudly in the mustard stalks, you'll see a patient rattling where his wrenches feel at home.

Long before plows hacked at the sagebrush and left rattlesnakes to bleed in those first alkali seedbeds — the antelope in their sleep made a band around his name, proud of the free rein of time
across the untamed valley floor, there was a dream the land would never be ashamed of when he spoke of glory loam.

Must find the secrets the topsoil gives to every dawn, headlights on his truck
searching the dark
for a broken down caterpillar
I begin to make into a song.

Ask any cat skinner whose ate that dust for miles and looked into his eyes,
born to the dirt and sun
he's earned his name in furrows found rewarding a killdeer's cries.

A Woman with Two Horses

Mari Creasy drove two horses
With quite an eye for color,
So we thought, since one was white
And the other as dark as the silence
She held us bound in by tradition.

Maybe her own eyes saw two worlds:
Some people said she was a breed,
Part white and the rest of her blood —
As if blood is ever any color but red —
The flow from some Crow Indian mother.

The day she was buried on Gebo hill
A few curious people who had never Known her well remarked her dark face.
Her horses are gone,
Yet trouble us today to reach two worlds.

Beartooth Mountains

These mountains never do go Down. Do you see how they go
Up and up until, if you look
At them, you think they might fall,
Topple over? But it is you
Who will fall

From watching them tower,
Watching them rear while you rear
Your head back on your neck
Until your eyes begin to float
From you, out of you
And up to the tops of the mountains
And you fall,

And fall and fall, far
Down the mountains, fading
Through your own eyes
Until you reach the floor
Of the valley, trying
Vainly to look up
From where you were.

FAMILY CIRCUS

Thursday, June 10, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Early in the day your mind may not be too sharp on details. It would be wise to re-examine your work later when you're on the ball.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You shouldn't be embarrassed today if you handle a matter differently than you originally planned. The change you make will be your bond.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persons you deal with today will appreciate and admire you because your word will be your bond.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're not looking for a free ride today. You're ready to work hard to earn your reward and won't complain because that's the way you prefer it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Move quickly into a situation today that you see is obviously being mismanaged. It will require a firm hand like yours to get things back on the track.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It will be your second effort that produces the kind of results you want today. You can win a victory, but you must be both patient and persistent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't turn down a proposition today because it seems to be worth less than you desire. It still may have sufficient merit for consideration.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You should be able to handle financial and career matters to your advantage today. You can be tough without being rude or overbearing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Conditions that have restricted you over the past couple of days will loosen up today, enabling you to move full speed ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are not one to shirk duties or responsibilities. This is fortunate, for today you may be called upon to do a job another has neglected.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People who tend to be flighty or lack depth will turn you off today. Conversely, deep thinkers and doers intrigue you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Opportunity — like the calvary — may arrive for you at the last minute. Hold the fort because things will probably happen in the nick of time.

Your Birthday
June 10, 1976

This coming year you may enter into an alliance with someone you've known, but have never been closely associated with. The arrangement will be lasting and profitable to both parties.

The pair of Nobody and Nameless finished dead last among the 40 entrants in the Cavendish invitational tournament. Here is one hand that really helped them to get that result.

At practically every table North and South bid to six or seven clubs and collected all 13 tricks if allowed to play the hand. But about half the time East and West took advantage of the favorable vulnerability to sacrifice in spades. Six

A plaintive letter from Nevada asks the penalty for going down 10 tricks redoubled and vulnerable.

The answer is 5,800 points. We regret that our reader did not give us either the bidding or the play.

Election jeopardizes HS sports

Foreboding was the worst of the evils shut up in Pandora's box and with the defeat of Measure A in Tuesday's election it has been released to haunt the athletic programs of the three Amador Valley Joint Union High Schools.

They know they'll feel the knife, but they don't know where.

Measure A was a revenue limit increase proposal that would have raised property taxes in the district by 6.8 cents over the next three years from the current $3.25 per $100 assessed value.

Voters defeated the measure, 7147-5855, a 54.9 percent majority.

Yesterday, district officials admitted they had little idea how heavily, or in what manner, the athletic programs would be decreased.

"Right now we're just licking our wounds," said district business manager Doug Rose. "We'll get back into the struggle tomorrow."

He explained that representatives of the district schools will begin study sessions today. They must make formal recommendations to the high school board on June 22 and a budget must be adopted by July 1, according to state law.

"We'll have to take a good hard look at the program," said Amador superintendent Dr. Bruce Newlin. "We'll be concerned with the cost and expense of all the co-curricular activities, such as athletics, music, speech and drama."

East Bay Athletic League commissioner Ralph Laird, Amador Valley High School principal, was a bit more specific.

"There's no doubt it will make serious inroads," he said in reference to the loss of funds that would have been generated by the measure. "There will probably be instructional and transportation cuts that would make a difference."

But, busy with final examinations and graduation, neither Laird or Athletic Director Pete Estrada was in a position to make a definitive statement on the matter. The situation was much the same with Principal Bob Hagler and AD Dennis Wong at Dublin.

An interesting difference in viewpoints developed at three-year old Foothill, the district's newest high school.

"We'll probably be hit harder in all areas — sports, science, etc. — because we don't have the inventories built up that the other schools do," said outgoing principal Don Landers.

Athletic Director Dan Chiolis saw the same void but reacted differently.

"The cuts probably won't hurt us as much as the others," he said. "We don't have anything to begin with."

Paradoxically, Foothill's battle for football lights and bleachers will not be affected by the cut. Funds for that project will come from booster club projects.

Additional funds for field improvements, tennis courts and access roads will come from the community service tax override fund. That money can't be used for salaries or other instructional purposes.

"I know it looks bad to a lot of people," he said. "They'll say, 'how come if there's money there we can't use it.'"

Such an attitude leads Chiolis to believe that the elimination of freshman teams, a step taken and reversed earlier this school year by the EBAL as a whole, won't occur.

"A lot of parents have no idea where all the funds come from," he explained. "I think we'll have to look at the whole program to see where the cuts should be made."

Gangnuss 9th on all-time list

Dublin hurdler Chuck Gangnuss leads a list of twelve East Bay Athletic League track athletes who finished among the East Bay's top ten in their events this season.

Gangnuss' time of 37.9 in the 330-yard low hurdles placed him ninth on the all-time East Bay list and gave him third during this hurdle-rich year. He took second in the 120-yard high hurdles and sixth in the 100-yard dash with respective times of 14.2 and 9.9.

He also was a member of Dublin's 440-yard relay team that went to the State meet in Berkeley last weekend. The other runners who contributed to the Gaels 43.2 best were Jim Boulware, Ricky Chan and Jon Batchelor.

The Gaels also placed two-miler Dan Harvey on the honor roll. Harvey's non-winning 9:30.9 effort was good for fifth.

Livermore's Boyd Tarin was named on the two-mile list, fifth with a 9:38.7, while team mate Mike West clocked a 38.7 in the 330 lows to finish eighth.

Gangnuss, Granada 880 runner Diana Stohr and Monte Vista shot putter Carol Dolsby were named to an imaginary all-East Bay track team.

Fritsch hurls no-hitter, belts homer

Ron Fritsch did it all for the Parkway Hardware Cardinals as they beat the Big O Tire Vikings, 7-0, in recent Dublin Little League major baseball.

Fritsch pitched a 13-strikeout no-hitter, walking only two, and homered to drive in three runs while at bat. Dane Elgiot hit a double for the Cards and Chris Frates had two hits.

Goodman makes 3A all-stars

Gregg Goodman of the East Bay Athletic League champion Monte Vista Mustangs was named to the all-tournament team of the recent North Coast Section AAA baseball championships.

Goodman, a senior pitcher, hurled a 2-hit, 3-walk complete game to beat Mt. Diablo in the tourney's first round. He struck out nine in that game. Although he lost MV's quarter-final game to Pleasant Hill the next day in relief, three unearned runs made the difference.

Bob Clark, drafted Tuesday by the Chicago Cubs, and Kevin Olsen of the champion Rams headed the elite list. Also on the mythic team are Frank Ferroni and Ross Ohrenschall of Redwood, Ed Trevino and Dave Orozco of Moreau, Steve Damm of El Cerrito and Jeff Ransom of Berkeley.

Jim Christensen, Mark Kenmille and Kevin Davis each drove in two runs as the Moeller Meat Pirates edged the Acme Casual Furniture Dodgers, 7-6. Willie Bailey and two hits and Rob Bottarini a triple for the losers.

In another senior league game, Willie Langenhuijzen fired a no-hitter at the Acme Trophy A's as the Filper Corp. Braves took a 9-0 win. Jeff Bynum doubled, driving in three runs for the Braves while Mike Caloiaro had two hits and as many RBI.

Rob Weeks and Mike VanStike had two hits each as the Handyman Royals overcame an early deficit to edge the Swenson's Ice Cream Giants, 9-8. Ramsey Ismail had three hits for the losers.

Kevin Trudeau hurled a 15-strikeout no-hitter as the Red Wing Shoes Cardinals blanked the Livermore Lockers Pirates, 9-0, in the majors.

Rich Pettinger tripled and drove in three runs as Corrine's Yankees beat the Groth Brothers Mets, 10-6.

Jeff Murray added two hits and Scott Macias drove in two runs. Ron Sweet and Jim Wright had the only hits for the losers.

Bret Chandler's double was the offensive highlight as the ServPro Giants lost, 5-1, to the Columbus Realty Dodgers. Terry Weir pitched a complete game three-hitter for the winners.

Mike Miller doubled, Tony Saputo had two hits and both drove in two runs as the Granada Pharmacy A's edged the VFW Indians, 7-6. Robert Reifenhaiser doubled for the losers while Tyler Moore drove in two runs.

In AA action the Tafoya Barber Shop Twins edged the Osborne Realty Indians 11-10.

David Humphrey led the winners with two hits. Bob Glasser had three for the winners.

D. Morris was the winning pitcher.

Crown Business Tigers scored eight runs in the fourth stanza to take a 15-14 win over the Orioles in AAA play. Craig McKinley led the winners with three hits and Woody Woodard added two.

Final PW sign-ups

Final sign-ups for the Tri-Valley Pop Warner Association's four youth football teams will be taken Saturday at the Livermore Recreation Center from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

The last registration day in Dublin will be Tuesday, June 15 at Homestead Savings and Loan from 8-10 p.m. Oakland Raider highlight films will be shown at each session.

The Association fields four teams open to boys aged 9-14 as of August 1 who weigh between 65 and 140 pounds. In addition to the three Dublin-based teams, a Livermore squad, nicknamed the Vikings, begins play this season.

Youths from any valley city may participate. Boys must be accompanied by a parent or guardian to the sign-up and bring a birth certificate copy. Registration fee is $5.

Practice begins August 2, with teams playing a 10-game schedule against other Bay Area clubs.

CIF changes hit girls

BERKELEY — The California Interscholastic Federation made several adjustments in the state-wide high school athletic program at its Federated Council meeting here last weekend.

As has been the recent trend, many of the changes concerned the fast-growing field of girls sports.

The Council's most significant action as far as local schools are concerned was the banning of girls from a boys team if a separate team for female athletes exists at the school.

Since Lisa Bee of San Ramon and Monte Vista's Jill Toney have been among the top players on their schools' "student" tennis teams during the past couple of seasons, the ruling may change the complexion of East Bay Athletic League tennis dramatically.

Diving, another "student" sport in which girls have played a large part, is a question mark since it is not an event in the EBAL's girls swimming meets.

Other distaff actions included: approving the two-mile as a girls track event and increasing the distance of the girls low hurdles from 80 to 110 yards, approving soccer as a sport for girls and approving shorter swim races for girls in those sections desiring them.

In actions involving championship play-offs, the CIF voted down a proposal to adopt regional track meets and wrestling tournaments as qualifying rounds for the State championships in each sport and defeated a request to open the Northern California Regional Basketball Tournament to any section champion desiring to enter.

However, the NCRBT directors may accept such an entry at their discretion as was done with the Los Angeles City Section champion last season.

The Council also adopted a State golf play-off between Northern Regional champion Del Campo and the Southern Regional titlist June 20 at Pebble Beach. It is the first Sunday event approved by the CIF and will be in conjunction with the State Amateur Championships.

Work on the Pleasanton Bicentennial Bandstand in Wayside Park, First Street has been completed. The public is invited to attend the official dedication of the facility scheduled Monday, at 7 p.m. Renovation of the stand came about through the cooperative efforts of many people and groups, however the Pleasanton Lions Club and the Bicentennial Committee were most directly concerned with the improvement work. Representatives of the City, Bicentennial Committee and the Lions Club will be on hand to participate in the ceremonies. The Ecuminal Brass Ensemble will provide the music for the evening. Since the completion of the paint job, plants have been added to enhance the dignity of the new bandstand.

Appreciated

Terry Vaeth who headed up the volunteers for Vintage Hills School, Pleasanton, this year receives a certificate of appreciation from Phyllis Clark, teaching vice principal of that school. The event, held at the home of Mrs. Clark, was the second annual "Thank You Tea" for the 100 per. week volunteers serving the school, plus fathers who gave of their time on weekends to establish a playground for the children. The social gathering was given by the faculty of the school.

Love Lane move gets approval

By CATHY TALLYN
Times Staff Writer

DANVILLE — The San Ramon Valley Unified School District intends to relocate the stretch of Love Lane which presently extends through the San Ramon High School campus here.

Plans call for a private road to be built on the southern edge of the campus connecting with Danville Boulevard and deadending at the railroad tracks.

In a split decision, the school board voted this week to ask Contra Costa County to abandon the street through the school and allow construction of an access road.

Trustees Joseph De Hope, Edward Best and Virginia Jouris voted in favor of the road closure and Jane Upp against after nearly two hours of discussion. Board President Harold Zuckerman chose not to vote.

The board was faced with the decision of leaving Love Lane open, relocating the street and leaving it open to through traffic or merely building an access road to a new parking lot to be constructed on campus.

Trustees have been discussing the situation off and on for a number of years.

Closure of the street has been criticized by nearby residents and the Danville Fire Protection District, but received the support of the San Ramon Valley Community Planning Committee.

The main complaint voiced by residents is that one access to their homes would be cut off, meaning they would have to take a more circuitous route.

Trustees, however, decided it would be safer for students if only student and staff traffic was allowed through the downtown campus.

By placing the street between the community center and lumber yard, the school campus wouldn't be divided as it is now.

The district will save up to $15,000 by reconstructing Love Lane as an access road rather than as a county road. Total cost of construction could go up to $75,000, according to estimates.

The road construction will be put out to bid later this month along with building projects at California High School and Pine Valley Intermediate School.

Tentative county plans are for a stop light to be placed at Danville Boulevard and La Gonda Way, and Danville Boulevard and the relocated Love Lane.

There's also a possibility the county will help pay the cost of relocating Love
